The department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences is recruiting diverse and creative scholars to join our Ph.D. program in the fall of 2023.

We are committed to creating a welcoming and inclusive environment for all students. Our department is deeply engaged in research on topics such as language and cognitive development, and has a strong track record of interdisciplinary collaboration.

Our Research Faculty

- Lindsay Butler, Ph.D., speech-language-pathology pathologist, autism spectrum disorder
- Kathleen Cianciolo, Ph.D., LEND AUD Coordinator
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head, cochlear implants, hearing, audiology
- Derek Houston, Department Head, speech perception, sentence processing, language development
- Bernard Grela, CT LEND SLP Coordinator, aural rehabilitation, hearing, aging, patient-centered care
- Jennifer Tufts, Director, Neurobiology of Language Program, aphasia, dyslexia, hearing impairment, cochlear implants
- Rachel M. Theodore, Associate Department Head, aphasia rehabilitation, recovery mechanisms, cognitive neuroscience of speech and language, speech perception
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head, early language development with and without communication disorders, reading disabilities, developmental language disorders, cultural diversity
- Adrián García-Sierra, Co-Director, CNC-CT, cochlear implants, hearing, audiology
- Lindsay Butler, Director, Cognitive Science Program, bilingualism, speech perception, sentence processing
- Emily B. Myers, Co-Director, CNC-CT, assessment and treatment of language and communication disorders
- Teresa Spaulding, Associate Department Head, aural rehabilitation, hearing, aging, patient-centered care
- Kathleen Cianciolo, Ph.D., LEND AUD Coordinator
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head
- Bernard Grela, CT LEND SLP Coordinator
- Jennifer Tufts, Director, Neurobiology of Language Program
- Rachel M. Theodore, Associate Department Head
- Derek Houston, Department Head
- Adrián García-Sierra, Co-Director, CNC-CT
- Lindsay Butler, Director, Cognitive Science Program
- Teresa Spaulding, Associate Department Head

Applications are encouraged to contact potential faculty members to discuss their research interests and potential opportunities.

Learn more and apply: slhs.uconn.edu

Ph.D. in Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences
Developing advanced understanding and support of functions of speech, language, and hearing.

Our Research Faculty

- Lindsey Butler, Ph.D., speech-language-pathology pathologist, autism spectrum disorder
- Kathleen Cianciolo, Ph.D., LEND AUD Coordinator
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head, cochlear implants, hearing, audiology, patient-centered care
- Bernard Grela, CT LEND SLP Coordinator, aural rehabilitation, hearing, aging, patient-centered care
- Jennifer Tufts, Director, Neurobiology of Language Program, aphasia, dyslexia, hearing impairment, cochlear implants
- Rachel M. Theodore, Associate Department Head, aphasia rehabilitation, recovery mechanisms
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head, early language development with and without communication disorders, reading disabilities, developmental language disorders, cultural diversity
- Adrián García-Sierra, Co-Director, CNC-CT, cochlear implants, hearing, audiology
- Lindsay Butler, Director, Cognitive Science Program, bilingualism, speech perception, sentence processing
- Emily B. Myers, Co-Director, CNC-CT, assessment and treatment of language and communication disorders
- Teresa Spaulding, Associate Department Head, aural rehabilitation, hearing, aging, patient-centered care
- Kathleen Cianciolo, Ph.D., LEND AUD Coordinator
- Jennifer Mozeiko, Associate Department Head
- Bernard Grela, CT LEND SLP Coordinator
- Jennifer Tufts, Director, Neurobiology of Language Program
- Rachel M. Theodore, Associate Department Head
- Derek Houston, Department Head
- Adrián García-Sierra, Co-Director, CNC-CT
- Lindsay Butler, Director, Cognitive Science Program
- Teresa Spaulding, Associate Department Head

Applications are encouraged to contact potential faculty members to discuss their research interests and potential opportunities.

Learn more and apply: slhs.uconn.edu

Ph.D. in Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences
Developing advanced understanding and support of functions of speech, language, and hearing.